Andy Stamp
Executive Director,

This activity-based workshop will feature the latest information on the impact of revisions to Virginia's mathematics SOL. Participants will become familiar with SOL changes, new expectations for student understanding, ideas for the revision of existing assessments, and new instructional strategies related to the challenges presented by the requirements of the new SOL and related yearly testing in mathematics.

During each workshop participants will learn about:

- essential components of curriculum, instruction, and learning to better align with critical knowledge, vocabulary and skills;
- adjustments to current pacing guides and curriculum maps; and
- ideas and strategies to focus division, school, and classroom programs on both formative and summative assessments.

Each participant will be provided with a toolkit of new resources to assist Virginia's educators in effectively preparing for implementation of the new mathematics SOL.

Overnight accommodations may be made directly with the hotel by contacting the Hotel Roanoke at 540-594-4722.(Refer to Virginia School University Room block by October 6.
